1	There is so much material to go over for this class that I think it needs to be weekly. The class itself is very dense in the material and more time allowed to go over it all in terms of understanding would be helpful. Also, I took this class as a first-semester student which I would not recommend in the future. I think that more time is needed in the program to become familiar with terms and practices to really get the most out of this course.	11/10/2020 9:46 AM
2	I am in my first semester and perceive things to be great. I have interaction with my Professor's and Advisor, and they always respond to my questions or inquiries. I have been provided great guidance and a strong foundation for the classroom and have no qualms with how things are going so far.	10/27/2020 3:06 PM
3	professors need to better know how to navigate canvas and other online formats	10/26/2020 10:12 PM
4	Teaching assistants	10/23/2020 9:34 AM

1	The opportunity to re-enter the classroom has been a blessing. Although the Pandemic is proving to have long lasting effects, I am certain that I can be successful in any format. Whether it be traditional Brick & Mortar or Virtual, I am excited about the opportunities.	10/27/2020 3:06 PM
2	I am a first year/currently first semester grad school student so I have not gotten to be fully immersed in the experience yet. From what I have seen thus far, things on the university's side are going better than I expected, and it makes it easier on me, as a student. I also like how the professors have posted every thing to canvas, and think this should be a requirement whether we are in class or online-- it makes it easier to find course content and information that I need.	10/26/2020 10:12 PM
